Report on Departmental Seminar Department of English

The Department of English at Jagannath Singh College organized a Departmental Seminar titled "Short Story as a Creative Writing" on April 20, 2026. The seminar aimed to explore the technical and artistic nuances of short fiction, encouraging students to transition from being passive readers to active creative contributors.

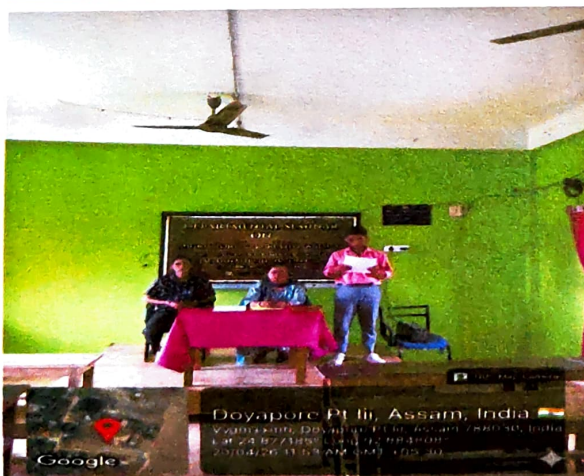

The session was moderated by Dr. Susmita Mitra (Head of the Department) and Dr. Koushik Nath. Dr. Susmita Mitra opened the session by emphasizing the importance of short story and how it serves as a unique medium of expression.

Dr. Koushik Nath provided insights into the structural elements of short stories, including plot development, character sketches.

A total of nine students actively participated in the seminar. Each student presented their original creative work or an analytical paper on the craft of short story writing.

The participants presented their seminar paper which were formally reviewed by the moderators.

The seminar concluded with a feedback session where the moderators praised the students' imagination and literary flair. The event successfully fostered a deeper appreciation for the short story genre and provided a platform for budding writers to showcase their talent.
