

Report: Extempore Speech Competition
Department of English

The Department of English of Jagannath Singh College organized an engaging Extempore Speech Competition on 21/04/2026, held on the college premises. The event aimed to enhance the spontaneous thinking and public speaking skills of the students while deepening their engagement with literary themes.

The competition was centered around different topics of literature, ranging from Elizabethan to modern poetry and novels. Participants were required to pick a topic on the spot and deliver a coherent, insightful speech with minimal preparation time.

A total of 7 students participated in the event, showcasing their eloquence and analytical depth. The speeches covered a diverse array of subjects, including the relevance of Shakespeare in the 21st century, the nuances of Romanticism, and the evolution of the female voice in literature.

The competition was judged by Dr. Susmita Mitra, Head of the Department of English and Dr. Koushik Nath, assistant professor, department of English. They evaluated the speakers based on their content, clarity of thought, command over the language, and overall presentation.

Following a highly competitive session, the winners were announced:

First Position was won by Tanushree Das, 6th semester and Second Position by Ankita CChand of 6th semester. In the concluding remarks, Dr. Susmita Mitra praised the participants for their courage and intellectual vigor. The event concluded with a vote of thanks to the faculty and students who made the program a success.
